Air Freight from China is the best choice when time is of the essence.

Air Freight from China is a reliable way to quickly receive valuable cargo. Despite the high cost of air transportation from China, this type of logistics services justifies itself if:

- Small cargo has a high price
- Urgency exceeds material costs
- Delivery of goods requires special conditions
- No other way to deliver cargo.

Air Freight from China is a reliable way to get your goods in a few days. Whichever country you are in, we will develop an optimal supply chain for you.

Advantages of air freight from China

The main advantage of air transportation is speed.

Delivery time from China depends on the destination and can take up to ten days. Usually, the whole process takes no more than 3-5 days. Compared with other types of transportation, this significantly reduces the delivery time. Today, only fast delivery times can have a huge impact on business profitability.

Besides, air freight is :

- Direct communication between cities and countries.
- Reduce the cost of storing goods.
- Cargo safety at all stages of its registration and delivery.
- No long queues for loading.
- The perfect balance between the quality of the services, costs, reliability, and timing.

Specifics of Air Freight from China

Several types of cargo can be delivered by air:

Groupage, or ordinary cargo. Jewelry, smartphones, precision electronics, hardware, and pharmaceuticals tend to have high purchasing costs. The share of electronic goods when delivered by air is over 40%. Since such a product has a high price, its safety in air transportation takes priority over cost.

Special cargo. This includes living things, goods with special storage conditions, chemicals, and so on. If the cargo is dangerous, or requires freezing or heating, then sending it by plane requires a special approach. Perishable or dangerous goods are subject to different rules than regular goods. Therefore, there are special rules and rates for each type of such cargo. Also, not all airlines undertake the delivery of such goods.

Air Freight cost from China

Different loads have different weight/volume ratios. Some weigh less with a large volume, others, on the contrary, weigh a lot with small dimensions. It's all about the balance of air carriers.

To determine the paid weight, two values must be taken into account:

1. Gross is the total weight of the product in the package.
2. Dimensional or abbreviated as DIM, calculated as volume: length, height, width.

For different carriers, the calculation formula may differ, to find out the price of air delivery from China, contact your supplier and provide the data to our specialist.
