

CANADA

CANADA

01

Canada has the fourth lowest population density in the world. In 2019, it was nearly about 38 million. Half of the Canadian population were born in other countries.

02

Canada is known to be the 2nd largest country in the world. It is bigger than the whole of the European Union, 30 per cent larger than Australia and three times larger than India.

03

An interesting fact about Canadian geography is that it has 6 time zones. Canada has the longest coastline – about 244 000 km. Canada also accounts for 10% of the world's forest covers.

04

Toronto, Montreal, Vancouver, Calgary, Edmonton and Ottawa have a population of over 1 million. The capital of Canada is Ottawa, which is the second coldest capital in the world.

CANADA

02

Canada is known to be the 2nd largest country in the world. It is bigger than the whole of the European Union, 30 per cent larger than Australia and three times larger than India.

03

An interesting fact about Canadian geography is that it has 6 time zones. Canada has the longest coastline – about 244 000 km. Canada also accounts for 10% of the world's forest covers.

04

Toronto, Montreal, Vancouver, Calgary, Edmonton and Ottawa have a population of over 1 million. The capital of Canada is Ottawa, which is the second coldest capital in the world.

CANADA

03

An interesting fact about Canadian geography is that it has 6 time zones. Canada has the longest coastline – about 244000 km .Canada also accounts for 10% of the world's forest covers.

04

Toronto, Montreal, Vancouver, Calgary, Edmonton and Ottawa have a population of over 1 million. The capital of Canada is Ottawa, which is the second coldest capital in the world.

CANADA

04

Toronto, Montreal, Vancouver, Calgary, Edmonton and Ottawa have a population of over 1 million. The capital of Canada is Ottawa, which is the second coldest capital in the world.

CANADIAN PROVINCES/TERRITORIES

Canada has ten provinces and three territories. Quebec in Canada is the only officially French-speaking province. New Brunswick is the only bilingual province.

Canada's newest territory is Nunavut, which separated from the Northwest Territories in 1999.

Nunavut is Canada's largest area by landmass and takes up one-fifth of Canada's total land area.

