Task 3. Analyse the charts and the text below. Fill in the gaps in the text with the NUMBER of the word or expression given after the text.

Let us now ___(18)___ another point which is the popularity of the programming languages. This slide shows how the ratings of the top 11 languages have changed ___(19)___ 2000. Overall, it is evident that users' preferences have altered ___(20)___.

If we look at the highest rankers, we can see that 20 years ago the only incontestable leader was programming language C ___(21)___ over 38%, ___(22)___ today its popularity constitutes a little more than 5%. ___(23)___, nowadays there are three forwards with almost the same figures – around 22-24%. It is interesting to note that the favourite today is the language ___(24)___, which didn't even enter the top list back in 2000. Remarkable also is that Java and JavaScript steadily follow the leader, yet they have changed their places in the rating. One can also note that the popularity of C# has ___(25)___ from the last place in 2000 with nearly 4% to the forth place today, but only ___(26)___ less than 5%. At the same time, the use of C++ has almost ___(27)___ during this period and is now only about 6.5%.

It is also worth noting that some of the languages, such as Perl, Visual Basic, Delphi or Pascal, which were relatively popular at the beginning of the 21st century, have ___(28)___ disappeared from the rating in 2019.

To conclude, the IT sphere has seen ___(29)___ changes in the last 20 years and is unlikely to stop evolving. ___(30)___ to be competitive in this ever evolving field, one has to be a constant learner.

1 – totally; 2 – whereas; 3 – by contrast; 4 – dramatically; 5 – with; 6 – that is why;
7 – risen; 8 – since; 9 – Python; 10 – turn to; 11 – significant; 12 – by; 13 – halved
