

How English Will Help You to Become Successful

Let's start with the definition of a successful person. As we all measure success as per our own standards. For some people success means wealth and status, for others - solid health and sporting wins, or a close-knit family. Human success in any field rests on the ability to set goals and to achieve them, feeling deep satisfaction at the results, as well as seeing the recognition of our achievement by others.

However, is it so easy to blossom out? In fact, in order to set a goal and to make the way towards its fulfillment, having summoned all strength, one should be responsible, disciplined, self-restraint. One should possess efficient way of thinking, and to be in the habit of exploring new things and developing oneself.

Surprisingly, everyone who is setting up a goal for himself to learn English, and who's making progress in this, naturally possesses all the above mentioned qualities. The people instinctively feel - if the person succeeded in mastering a foreign language, not even from A to Z, but at the level enough for free communication, then he is capable in succeeding in any his future initiative.

In the Post-Soviet area proficiency in English still provides the person with an invisible privilege in terms of perception by others. One can say the person having a good command of English, is ALREADY successful.

Flavored by broaden options for employment, higher salary rate, free communication with foreigners in tourist and business travels, proficiency in English becomes nothing less than a magic power, which turns its owner into a powerful mister.

English ability gives you access to any door: there is no need for you to wait until somebody translates for you in a business meeting, you can easily handle business with foreign partners, without engaging a mediator. It is commonly known that in the process of translation, depending on its quality, 30 to 70 per cent of information gets lost. Just imagine, how much additional useful information you get by relying on your own knowledge!

Mastery of English gives you a possibility to watch movies and read books in the original. As soon as you start doing that you will understand how much useful, important and funny information translators and dubbing actors are subtly hiding from you.

Even though currently there is a lot of information on new inventions, achievements and findings available in internet in Russian, most of it represents translated copies or compilations from foreign sources. Having gained mastery of English, you can easily get access to information about all that is happening in the world, practically straight from the horse's mouth. And remember: he who owns the information, owns the world!

Nowadays the world is changing every second, new and new requirements arise, demand for these or those skills fluctuates drastically. One may safely affirm that the future belongs to active, goal-oriented people, who are ready to master new areas at lightning speed, to cosmopolites with developed cross-cultural competencies.

It is now high time to start investing heavily in self-development, and let English mastering will become the first step of your success!