Planets in the Signs

The planets represent energies and cosmic forces that can manifest in different ways. They are like the actors in a play. The signs describe the ways in which these planetary energies are used. They show the motivation and the roles the different actors play. As with everything in the material world, these energies can and usually do operate in two directions, the positive and negative.

Ascendant in Pisces

Anthony, you tend to be sensitive, compassionate, empathic, weak-willed, long-suffering, day-dreamy, procrastinating, plastic, impressionable, impractical, indecisive, psychic, sentimental, romantic, idealistic, affectionate, easy-going, lazy, not concerned with the practical day-to-day affairs of life, absent-minded, and in search for the Holy Grail.

At times you are too absent from focused awareness of the present. You may dream through life rather than live it.

Anthony, you view life through the realms of fantasy and sensitivity. Your self-expression can be inspirational or sacrificial. As you prefer to escape from the harsh realities of the world, you will do well to develop your creative, spiritual and/or artistic abilities.

There may be involvement in music or dance or drugs. Anthony, you may have a lonesomeness that nothing in the outer world can remedy. Being alone at times is an

Sun in 8th house

The 8th House deals with transformations, death, money, and sex. It reveals the soul-level changes you experience throughout your life. Planets in this house affect shared resources, taxes/debts, and your inner power/control over the world.

The Sun rules personality, ego, self-esteem, leadership, and public recognition.

- You are constantly reinventing and improving yourself
- You always feel the need to experience more things, especially when it pertains to self-discovery
- You have generally stable emotions and don't portray you outwardly
- Anthony, you want all of your experiences to be intense and profound
- You feel things more deeply than others
- You usually have steady finances and may gain an inheritance

Moon in 5th house

The 5th House is all about self-expression, creativity, romance, and children. It reveals how you have fun, what kind of romantic you are, and how you express yourself creatively. Planets/signs in this house reveal the child within yourself.

The Moon rules emotions, instincts, the home, maternal matters, and the past.

Planetary Aspects

If the planets represent energies and cosmic forces that manifest in different ways, then the planetary aspects show how these energies and forces tend to act and react, one with another, if the will of the person is not brought into play to change them.

Sun Square Moon (2°1')

Your selfishness and interest in your own affairs keeps you from being sympathetic to the needs and feelings of others. Anthony, you feel at cross-purposes with yourself because your conscious intentions and desires conflict with your subconscious emotional needs and drives. You feel pulled in two different directions. This is a major reason why you find it hard to be decisive. You vacillate on whether or not you should do this or that and this causes you a great deal of inner stress. You can't seem to make up your mind on anything. You try to do the right thing, but you aren't sure what the right thing is. You have problems with satisfying both your need to be an individual and your need for caring relationships and a sense of belonging. Because of the mixed messages you send out, people don't always know how to respond to you or know what you really want. This can cause confusion and conflict in relationships. Anthony, you need to find the right balance between your emotions and your will. Come to an awareness that your energy flow fluctuates like the ebb and flow of the tides. When your energy is at a high, you should try to accomplish as much as possible during that time. When your energy is low, then
